Ingenieurbüro

The company has been in existence for more than 20 years and has been one of the pioneers in energy efficiency and forward-looking energy concepts. It has won numerous awards and awards for its climate-friendly concepts in the past.

The engineering firm is considered to be one of the first addresses in the field of holistic energy planning in building construction. This is in both housing and commercial. In-depth physical knowledge, combined with many years of expertise in the planning of in-house systems, enables a holistic approach to efficient energy use in the interaction of all trades (plumbing, heating, ventilation and Air conditioning and all renewable energies).

There are long and good relations with the planners in the surrounding cities, for whom one also works as a state-approved expert.
