Young, motivated industrial engineer is looking for a long-term company takeover

As a young industrial engineer with a sound education in the technical, commercial and sales fields, I am looking for a new entrepreneurial perspective. I like to work my heart and soul into new areas of responsibility with a high level of detail and learn something new every day.

What do I bring with me?

Thanks to my studies in industrial engineering (mechanical engineering), my master's degree in sales management and my professional experience in the vehicle/security industry, I bring a solid technical understanding, clear commercial basics and real joy in sales. In practice, I worked in assembly, production planning and project management, deepening my knowledge of ERP, CRM and CAD systems as well as MS Office and VBA.
