Earthworks and demolition

Our company is active in the fields of earthworks, demolition and disposal.

Now we intend to expand the existing company and build a recycling plant for construction waste and earth material at a strategically advantageous location (near Nuremberg).

The aim of the entire plant is to upgrade construction waste and earth material and to resell it as a certified "new building material".

Our experience has shown us that once such an investment is properly positioned, it can be operated without much effort and yields a high return.

The market is limitless, so to speak.

We have the necessary expertise, construction machinery and personnel are already available through our existing company.

We are now looking for an investor who will realize this project together with us.

If I have aroused your interest, we are happy to exchange ideas in advance by phone.

Sincerely,
