Mineral water producers

The non-alcoholic beverage market has been one of the most dynamic segments of the food and consumer goods industry for years. Water, as well as healthy, natural, and functional beverages that reflect consumers' growing awareness of nutrition and sustainability, are particularly in demand.

In addition, consumers appreciate traditionally brewed, regionally produced beers, creating attractive synergies between mineral water companies and breweries.

Here you invest in naturalness, quality, and the future, and acquire an established mineral water company and brewery with an excellent brand image, a diverse sales structure, and high growth potential.
