Steel and metal construction

For sale is a steel and metal construction company that has been established for decades with a clear focus on industrial customers. The company has a long-standing market presence, a very good reputation in its region and an experienced team of qualified specialists in production, assembly and project management.

The service portfolio includes in particular steel construction, industrial construction, individual steel and welded constructions, assembly services, repair and conversion work as well as special technical solutions for demanding industrial applications. Thanks to the existing certifications and approvals, the company is also qualified for safety-critical areas of application and demanding industrial customers.

The customer base consists exclusively of B2B customers, especially from industry, plant and mechanical engineering as well as the commercial technical environment.
