E-commerce trade with premium health product

An established e-commerce product business in the health and wellness sector is offered for sale. The sale includes product stock, brand rights, an existing online shop structure, customer base, sales texts, know-how, supplier relationship, sales process and proven lead generation.

The product is positioned in the premium segment, is difficult to compare directly and has already been sold through its own online sales channel. The business is particularly interesting due to its attractive margin structure and the ability to generate qualified customer inquiries at low cost.

The existing marketing and lead generation structure can be transferred to the buyer. This gives the buyer not only an existing customer base and sales material, but also a practical foundation for ongoing new customer acquisition.

The offer is suitable for e-commerce entrepreneurs, online shop operators, marketplace sellers, performance marketing specialists or investors with sales experience.

A short-term handover is possible. Further details, documents, asset overview and proof of performance can be provided to serious interested parties.
