Look for Corporate financing, investor Snack Bar

Dear Financiers, Investors, and Prospective Partners,

In 2026, the culinary landscape of many cities—specifically their street food culture—has undergone a dramatic transformation. Everywhere you look, you find predominantly—and in some places, exclusively—so-called "Döner joints" offering Döner kebabs, pizza, and the like, or American fast-food chains that have been encroaching upon traditional German street food culture since the 1980s.

The classic street food culture—featuring Currywurst, fries, Schnitzel, Bockwurst, Frikadellen, and similar staples—has all but vanished.

Voices lamenting the loss of this authentic German street food culture are growing louder; people miss the simple pleasure of grabbing a quick Currywurst on their way to work or while out and about.

With my 12 years of experience in the street food industry—gained at funfairs, city festivals, and public events—I possess the necessary expertise and flair to breathe new life into this cultural tradition.

Reviving a concept like this requires significant entrepreneurial acumen, patience, and financial reserves—resources which, unfortunately, I do not currently possess. What I can offer—in more than ample measure—is a clear vision, culinary proficiency, a highly developed palate, and a genuine, effective approach to customer service.

In short, what I am looking for:

I am seeking a financier, investor, or partner who shares my passion for saving German street food culture and is willing to commit the necessary capital to make this vision a reality.

Specifically, what I offer:

A highly motivated—albeit formally untrained—restaurateur with a clear vision and defined goals. I bring extensive knowledge regarding flavor development and product expertise to the table, and I am looking to serve not as the direct owner, but rather in the capacity of Operations Manager/Concept Lead and Head Cook.
